

Patient Information

Due to the ruling made by the Medical Council of Hong Kong as regards laboratory investigations and related service charges we have taken the decision to confirm this company's policies on fee structuring to all patients of this practice. The fees charged by (this company) for investigations are made up of the following component costs:

- The fee paid by the company for the laboratory test
- Provision of qualified nursing for medical and clerical related services
- Provision of telephone reporting of results by a medically qualified member of staff
- Provision of administrative staffing services including accounting, clerical & secretarial
- Provision of office facilities & relevant insurance
- Provision of relevant medical equipment and related medical supplies
- Provision of storage both refrigerated and non-refrigerated
- Provision of clinical waste disposal services
- Provision of computerized medical system for medical management, company & patient accounting and outside audit services
- Provision of outside maintenance of computerized services both hardware and software

Accordingly, these component costs, being additional to but included with third parties' fees, are reflected in this company's invoices. If a more detailed breakdown of the same is required, it will be supplied and please contact the practice manager.
